Healthy Snacking and Fluid Intake

Date: Wednesday, June 24, 12:30 - 1:00 pm
Presented by Dr. John Bonavia, Family Medicine, Port Family Medical Clinic

*Snacking is fast becoming the American way of eating, especially during the summer, when there are more social gatherings and outdoor festivities. And, during a time when everyone is always rushing around in a hurry these days, there's often little or no time for healthy, square meals. So grazing, or snacking on mini-meals, becomes the every day norm, but it is easy to get into the habit of unhealthy snacking. Join Dr. Bonavia as he discusses guidelines of healthy snacking and fluid intake for seniors.

RON WEISS

I live with my wife Jean, and we have lived in Port Washington our entire lives. I served in the Army for 2 years stationed in Germany, during the Vietnam War due to the Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia. He worked for the City of Port Washington for 42 years in the Street Department. I am a past President of Union Local 108 and served as a trustee for 3 years. As a newer member of the Center, I enjoy the sheepshead group on Thursday afternoon. I eat lunch at the dining site weekly. My wife and I look forward to taking day trips in the future.
